SHOT TO DEATH

Was Fitzhugh Renfrow While Begging to be Spared.

Powers His Slayer Claims he did it in Self Defense---Rumors of Insanity.

Last Friday afternoon about five o'clock, at Narrows, Hiram Powers shot and killed almost instantly, Fitzhugh Renfrow. Powers was arrested in a short while by Sheriff Cal P. Keown who was at the time of the killing at Fordsville five miles away arriving on the train which was held until the arrest could be made, then the train was again boarded and at 10:30 o'clock Powers was at Hartford surrounded by a guard in whose custody he remained until Monday afternoon when he was placed in jail to await the action of the grand jury which assembles at the May term of Circuit Court.

Powers tells one story and parties who saw the affair tell an altogether different one about the killing and what transpired at the time.

Renfrow was the senior member of the Mercantile firm of Fitzhugh Renfrow & Co., general merchants at Narrows. Powers is in the saw-mill business.

As gathered from current reports the facts are these; at the time of the shooting which resulted in Mr. Renfrow's death he was at or near Dr. Maxwell's residence in Narrows having gone there a short time before to see Dr. Maxwell about some business transaction, and while engaged in conversation with him, Powers came up and demanded to know of Renfrow what he was going to do about some of the former's fence that had burned from fire started by Renfrow in cleaning off his ginseng garden. Renfrow told him that he would pay him for the damage or rebuild the fence, but that he (Powers) was drinking and it was best to wait until some other time. At this, Powers became enraged drew a dirk knife and started at Renfrow with it drawn declaring that the burned fence matter should be settled right then. Renfrow retreated and as he did so he picked up a piece of brick and as powers continued advancing he threw the brick at him but missed him. At this juncture Powers drew his revolver. Renfrow begged him not to shoot but his entreaties were unheeded and two or three shots were quickly fired one of which took effect in the right and another in the left side of Renfrow's abdomen. Seeing that there was no means of escape as long as Powers had the revolver, Renfrow advanced and grappled with him in an effort to take the pistol from him. This he was about to succeed in doing, having thrown Powers to the ground, but two more shots rang out one piercing his arm and the other taking effect in his chest and Renfrow fell mortally wounded his prostrate form lying on his back. Powers again drew his dirk knife and attempted to cut the almost lifeless body but J. B. Renfrow, a brother of the man, killed, came upon the scene and took the knife from him and began to use him up somewhat roughly dealing him several blows with his fist and shoeheels and had not others interfered Powers would no doubt have been beaten most to death by the outraged brother of the murdered man.

After Powers had accomplished this dastardly crime he went to his home and reloaded his revolver and procured a double-barrel shotgun and backed himself into an open closet and defied anybody to approach him or to try to arrest him. When Sheriff Keown arrived however he reconsidered the matter and surrendered without resistance.

Feeling against Powers ran high and it is reported that within twenty minutes after the train, that bore Sheriff Keown, and the prisoner away from Narrows, left there, there were no less than forty or fifty citizens of the town and surrounding community assembled with a view, it is thought, of mobbing Powers. The timely manner and dispatch with which Sheriff Keown took him into custody avoided this complication and the law will take its course as in other cases.

Powers claims that Renfrow threw several bricks at him and knocked him down with one before he attempted to hurt him. It is also rumored that Powers was at the time mentally unbalanced and physicians who have examined him say there is no doubt but that he is considerably off his balance.

The funeral and burial of Mr. Renfrow occurred Sunday, amid one of the largest crowds ever assembled on such an occasion in the county. He was a man of sterling worth and his tragic end has cast a gloom over the entire community.

Former Ohio County Lady Dead.

Mrs. Mattie Murrell, a daughter of Dr. W. J. Berry one of the pioneer settlers of Hartford, died at the home of her brother, Dr. L. B. Berry, at Lake City, Florida, Monday, March 27th. The Lake City Citizen Reporter in speaking of Mrs. Murrell says: Mrs. Murrell was born in Hartford, Ohio County, Ky., but has resided in Florida for a number of years. Her late husband, Judge W. H. Murrell, who was a prominent citizen of Ft. White, preceded her to the grave about four years ago. Shortly after the death of her husband, Mrs. Murrell moved to this city, where she resided up to the time of her death.

Mrs. Murrell was a member of the Presbyterian church, and a conscientious christian, and her beautiful christian character won for her many friends. She was a prominent member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and accomplished a great deal towards advancing the cause of temperance.

ROOSEVELT AT LOUISVILLE

Demonstration of High Tribute to the Nation's Chief Executive.

Louisville, Ky., April 4.—For the first time in nineteen years Louisville did honor to a President today, welcoming President Roosevelt in true Kentucky style and bidding him God-speed with cheers.

When the President alighted from the train cheers arose from thousands of throats. "Hurrah for Teddy," "Good Old Boy," and "Hurrah for Roosevelt" seemed to be the most favored expressions, and the President responded by repeatedly bowing and raising his hat.

The presence of the nation's chief executive within the city's gates was the occasion of one of the most elaborate demonstrations ever seen here. Thousands of people lined the streets along the line of the parade, and the crowd cheered vehemently when the President, now and then doffing his hat and smiling pleasantly, was driven to the speaker's stand, which had been erected in front of the court house.

Here the crowd filled every nook and cranny, gaped from housetops and hung from the crossbeams of telegraph poles. After a speech of fifteen minutes, which was often interrupted by vehement cheers, the president was driven to the Seventh street depot, from which his special train left at 11 o'clock for St. Louis.

No incident marred the pleasure of the day. The programme was carried out with perfection. The immense parade, complex in its composition, passed through streets lined with waving, cheering thousands. Gorgeous costumes, gay flags, good humor, the smiles of the President as he stood bowing in his carriage, harmonized to make both splendid and informal the greatest entertainment ever planned by the city of Louisville.

Everybody had a regular old-fashion good time. The President was undisguisedly pleased.

BURNED TO DEATH

Did Dr. Hale and Wm. Divens in Deanfield Lockup.

Bodies Burned Beyond Recognition---Twelve Hours in the Fire.

Dr. John Hale, of Lyon, Hancock county, and William Divens, of Deanfield, lost their lives by burning to death in a fire that destroyed the Deanfield lockup last Friday night.

The two men were arrested about 8 o'clock Friday night for drunkenness and placed in the lockup in default of bail. There was no fire in the building and no light about 12:30 o'clock Lee Basham, who lives a short distance from the site of the lockup, was awakened by the glare of flames through the window. Leaping out of bed he gave the alarm and ran himself to the scene. There was no possibility of doing anything, however, to save the men. The door was quickly burst open but the inside was a mass of flame, which swept out of the door, shutting off, after the first moment all view of the interior. All the people in the town were soon at the fire and they stood about until the building was a mass of embers, many remaining all night.

The remains of the men were not rescued until the fire had burned itself out. What was left on Hale's body weighed about twenty-five pounds. The remains of Divens weighed about fifteen pounds. It was very difficult to distinguish the remains, as they were charred to such an extent.

The coroner's inquest returned a verdict of death by accidental fire, starting in a manner unknown.

Dr. John Hale was about fifty-two years of age. He was a son of the late Pike Hale, of Calhoun, and had many relatives in Davies and Ohio counties. He was well known as a citizen and bore a good reputation except for occasional spees in which he would indulge. He was married and is survived by his wife and two children.

William Divens was a miner. He formerly worked in the mines at Deanfield, but a few years ago opened a small country mines, which he worked for himself, supplied the neighborhood demand for coal. He was about fifty years old and married.

There is only one theory as to the origin of the fire. Both men were confirmed smokers and it is presumed that in lighting his pipe one or the other set the bedding on fire. If they made any outcry, the noise was not heard as both were dead and burned to a crisp before the fire was discovered.

The bodies were not certainly identified. It is believed that one which was near the door was that of Dr. Hale, on account of the metal buttons on his clothes and that the other was Divens because the body of a dog was found near the remains crouched in one corner. Divens' dog was placed in the lockup with him at his request when he was arrested by Marshal Evans.

Bank at Dundee.

A bank has been organized at Dundee with capital stock $15,000, and will begin business as soon as the safe, furniture and fixtures can be procured. The officials of this new enterprise are some of the county's best business men and a splendid business is anticipated. The officials are as follows: Dr. M. T. McDowell, President; Jake Duke, Vice-President; S. J. Weller, Cashier. Board of Directors: Dr. M. T. McDowell, S. J. Weller, Joe Maiden, J. D. Duke, John M. Godsey, Frank Lanham and C. C. Moseley.

VERY TRYING TO WOMEN

Are the Peculiar Ills Brought on by Catarrh of the Pelvic Organs.

(Pe-ru-na is a Tonic Especially Adapted to Their Peculiar Diseases.)

Catarrh is a very frequent cause of that class of diseases popularly known as female weakness. Catarrh of the pelvic organs produces such a variety of disagreeable and irritating symptoms that many people—in fact, the majority of people—have no idea that they are caused by catarrh.

A great proportion of women have some catarrhal weakness which has been called by the various doctors who have consulted by as many different names. These women have been treated and have taken medicines, with no relief, simply because the remedies are not adapted to catarrh. It is through a mistaken notion as to the real nature of the diseases that these medicines have been recommended to them.

If all the women who are suffering with any form of female weakness would write to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and give him a complete description of their symptoms and the peculiarities of their troubles, he will immediately reply, with complete directions for treatment, free of charge. "Health and Beauty," a book written especially for women, sent free by Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Alice Dressler, of No. 1313 North Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes as follows concerning Peruna:

"I was suffering from catarrh of the throat and head. One of my college friends, who was visiting me, asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh, but restored me to perfect health."—Alice Dressler.

Miss Mamie Groth, Plattville, Wis., writes:

"I have for several years suffered with frequent backache and would for several days have splitting headaches. Several of my friends advised me to take Peruna and I asked my physician what he thought of it. He recommended it and so I took it and am entirely without pain of any kind now."—Mamie Groth.

In a recent letter from No. 2 Grant Ave., Denver, Col., Mrs. Ida L. Gregory writes:

"Some six years ago my husband suffered with nervous prostration, and advising with a friendly druggist he brought home a bottle of Peruna. His health was restored from its use, his appetite was increased and restful sleep came to him."—Ida L. Gregory.

Miss Florence Murphy, No. 2708 Second Ave., Seattle, Wash., writes:

"I suffered for over a year with female trouble, and although I tried several physicians none of them seemed to be able to help me permanently.

"It only took a little over three bottles of Peruna to make me well and strong. I never have backache, headache or bearing down pains any more."—Florence Murphy.

Mrs. Louise Westbrook, No. 9 East Columbia St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary of the West Side Lotus Club, writes:

"For several years I suffered with leucorrhoea and painful menstruation, which was followed by general debility, until I was but a wreck of myself. Thanks to Peruna I am a well woman to-day."—Louise Westbrook.

Miss Jessie Westland, No. 707 Beaumont Ave., Detroit, Mich., District

Deputy of Detroit Independent Order of Good Templars, writes as follows:

"Peruna has been a blessing to me and gladly do I endorse it. For two years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach. I lost flesh and grew thin and emaciated, nervous and exhausted, so that I could neither work or enjoy life. I began taking Peruna and can now eat and enjoy everything I eat. I have been well over a year now."—Miss Jessie Westland.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Rate Bill and Tariff Revision Will Be Recommended.

Special Session of Congress Will Be Asked to Consider Them.

SANTO DOMINGO SITUATION.

(Special to THE REPUBLICAN.)

Washington, D. C., April 5, 1905.

When the extra session of Congress is called in October the President will present for its consideration the two questions which were passed at the last session without legislation, that is, railroad rate legislation and the revision of the Dingley tariffs in certain schedules not difficult to prophesy. The new House of Representatives will, in all likelihood, pass a rate bill as easily as the last one but it will be in the Senate that a blockade can be predicted. One thing alone can prevent the miscarriage of these reforms and that is for the Senators to be made to understand in no uncertain way that they are in the Senate to represent the people and to fulfill their wishes.

The President's decision in the Santo Domingo situation by which this government will administer the finances of the country pending the ratification of the treaty by the Senate next fall is regarded with great satisfaction by practically every one except those Senators who either represent some opposed private interest or whose policy is simply one of opposition. Circumstances have made it clear that we are the one power to which Santo Domingo was entitled to look for assistance and that in the world wide interest of peace and good order it was our duty to assume the responsibility of administering her debts and providing for the payment of her creditors in a reasonable time. Moreover in our own interest it was advisable that we should do anything possible to prevent the seizure of the island by a foreign power with the accompanying likelihood that we should in time be compelled to disestablish the European Naval base in West Indian waters that would be the gradual development. In the interest of the Republic itself and the small governments of the South American States the example is good and is likely to lead to a better and wiser administration by those governments of their finances. Viewed from every reasonable standpoint it is apparent that the President is justified by his orders concerning Santo Domingo and it is probable by fall that the approval of the plan will so far have overcome the first resentment of certain Senators that the treaty will have support even on the Democratic side. The Caribbean sea must finally be regarded as an American Lake just at the Gulf of Mexico and the Government must be made to feel that it has rights and responsibilities in that sphere just as it has about the Gulf of Mexico.

Without regard to the Monroe Doctrine we have on various critical occasions interfered in the affairs of our near by Latin-American neighbors and we must do it more and more as their needs and our powers increase.

Last Fight Between Indians and Whites on Kentucky Soil Took Place in Summer of 1793.

"In the course of the summer of 1782, the spies who had been down the Ohio below Limestone discovered where a party of about twenty Indians had crossed the Ohio and sunk their canoes in the mouth of Holt's creek. The sinking of their canoes and concealing them, was evidence of the intention of the Indians to recross the Ohio at the same place. When Kenton received this intelligence, he dispatched a messenger to Bourbon county, to apprise them that the Indians had crossed the Ohio and had taken that direction; while he forthwith collected a small party of choice spirits, whom he could depend upon in case of emergency. Among them was Cornelius Washburn, who had the cunning of a fox for ambuscading, and the daring of a lion for encountering. With this party, Kenton crossed the Ohio, at Limestone, and proceeded down to opposite the mouth of Holt's creek, where the Indian canoes lay concealed. Here his party lay concealed four days, before they saw or heard anything of the Indians. On the fourth day of their ambuscade, they observe three Indians come down the bank, and drive six horses into the river. The horses swam over. The Indians then raised one of their canoes they had sunk, and crossed over. When the Indians came near the shore, Kenton discovered that of the three men in the canoe, one was a whiteman. As he was with this party of Indians had his ears cut, his nose bored and all the marks which distinguish the Indians. Kenton and his men still kept up the ambuscade, knowing they were still more Indians, and one canoe behind. Some times in the night, the main body of Indians came to the place where their canoes were sunk and hooted like owls; but not receiving any answer, they began to think all was not right. The Indians were as vigilant as wensels. The two parties who had been killed, the main body expected to find encamped on the other side of the Ohio; and as no answer was given to their hooting, which was doubtless agreed upon as a

"He said that he had sunk a shaft about 25 feet deep and struck salt water; that the hole was in solid ice. Of course, there is in many places up there great layers of ice through which the miner must dig before he strikes the ground. Harry, though, struck water instead of ground, and he found that he had been boring into an iceberg and had struck into a blow hole in the ice filled with sea water. If he had gone down deep enough no doubt he would have broken through into the bottomless sea. That's one experience.

A man appeared on the street the other day with a big three-cornered scar on the side of his face, which looked suspiciously like the print of a heel of a lady's shoe, and when a friend who had not seen him for a long time met him and with surprise asked him: "Why, Jim, how did you get that awful scar?" he replied: "That is a birthmark," and his friend, exclaimed: "Impossible! You did not have it when a boy." "No," he replied, "but it is a birthmark just the same. You see, when I was coming home from the West I was riding on a sleeping car and tried to get in the wrong berth."

Are these lines from J. H. Simmons, of Casey, La. Think what might have resulted from his horrible cough if he had not taken the medicine about which he writes: "I had a fearful cough, that disturbed my night's rest. Read this over three times and then tell who Bill was: "Bill had a bill board. Bill also had a board bill. The board bill bored Bill so that Bill sold the bill board to pay his board bill. So after Bill sold his bill board to pay his board bill, the board bill no longer board Bill." In line with the tale of Bill's board bill and Bill's bill board it might be mentioned that if Bill's bill bored Bill as much as Bill's board bill bored why not "board" Bill with a board from Bill's bill board and throw Bill's board bill and Bill's bill board over board?

The town of Mettamiscontis, Me., which was incorporated in 1839 and grew into a prosperous settlement, has met with reverses and is about to surrender its town organization. On March 4, 1904, its population had dwindled to twenty-eight, and every one in town was either a Sawyer or a Roberts. Everybody was related to everybody else. The community has become literally a family affair. At present the town has no post office, no clergyman, no lawyer and no physician. Among the assets of the once flourishing municipality is a weed grown cemetery in which there has been no interment for six years.

Your doctor will tell you that thin, pale, weak, nervous children become strong and well by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Small doses, for a few days.

Sarsaparilla

The change is very prompt and very marked. Ask your doctor why it is. He has our formula and will explain.

"When 12 years old, for many months no one thought I could live because of this blood. But in a few weeks, Ayer's Sarsaparilla completely restored me to health."

The Wonderful Stallion.

GOEBEL,

Will make the season of 1905 at E. D. Oldham's stable, near Beaver Dam, Ky., at $15 to insure a living colt. Care will be taken to prevent accidents, but will not be responsible should any occur. Season is due when colt is foaled or mare parted with. A lien will be retained on colt until season fee is paid.

This magnificent horse is pronounced by the best judges of horse flesh to be the best combined, saddle and harness stallion in Kentucky. He needs no reputation as a show horse to those who have seen him show. He has been shown at the best fairs in the State each year since he was two years old, and has won more blue ties than any horse of his class. Goebel is a model horse and he proves to be an excellent breeder.

Description and Pedigree.

GOEBEL is a coal-black stallion, three white feet, star in forehead, 16 hand high, will be 6 years old the 1st of May, 1905. He has fine main tail, style and action, and is pretty as a picture. Goebel was sired by Happy Bell, he by Happy Cross 52 in S. H. B's. Association. Happy Cross is by Girard's Chief 2253; first dam by old Star Denmark. Happy Bell's first dam by imported Seythor (thoroughbred). Goebel's first dam by Rolla Gold Dust, he by Arabian Gold Dust, he by Dorsey's Gold Dust 150. Second dam is Mollie W., by Fancy Gold Dust, he by old Gold Dust 150. Second dam by Dr. J. H. Thomas' old Cotton Picker. Goebel's first dam, a half-sister to Nellie W.

I desire to thank the citizens for their support last year and would kindly ask all whose desire is to raise fine colts to call and see my stock before breeding elsewhere.

PREMIUM I will give the season for the best colt of his get this year and $10 for the 2nd best. Colts to be shown at Beaver Dam on Saturday before the Ohio County Fair, 1906.

FORGOT HIS OWN NAME.

Stories That Are Told of Absentminded Josiah Quincy.

The absentmindedness of distinguished men, however much it may be a source of annoyance to themselves, serves to furnish the public with entertainment. Many venerable anecdotes still in circulation, plain and with variations, are based on this weakness of men of genius. The oft told story of the man who forgets his own name is one of them. It is told of many famous personages and doubtless of more than one of them with truth. Josiah Quincy, president of Harvard college, is one of the number. Of him the accepted form is that he could not recall who he was for the information of a person who requested him to leave his name for another on whom he had called until still another person passing by paused to speak and addressed him as "President Quincy."

"The very name I was trying to remember!" exclaimed the absentminded president, with vast relief. A little known and far more interesting, if less amusing, story of his forgetfulness was recently related by one who in turn had had it from his father, present as a boy when the incident occurred. Mr. Quincy on a notable occasion was prepared to address a great meeting in Faneuil hall. His speech fell naturally into two divisions. He delivered the first part and began the second.

"At that time, gentlemen," he said, and stopped. He paused, repeated, "At that time, gentlemen," and stopped again. A third time he repeated the phrase. But what should have followed had gone completely from his mind and could not be recalled, and he took his seat in confusion and distress.

It was more than an awkward situation for the chairman of the meeting, Harrison Gray Otis, and for the great, silent audience—it was a painful one. But Mr. Otis, rising and stepping forward, un-nounced quietly that if the eloquent speaker required time to collect his thoughts before proceeding there was no doubt that all would willingly wait for him if it were till midnight. "But should he proceed no further," he added, "What he has said has been so clear, so cogent and so convincing that he may rest assured he has already satisfied every man present—except himself."—Youth's Companion.

That Explained It.

A Methodist congregation, who regretted the departure of a minister whose time had expired, plied the pastor with questions about the man appointed to succeed him.

The pastor gravely answered them:

"He is a good man and an able preacher, but—there, I don't suppose I ought to say anything, and I think on reflection that I won't."

Of course this inflamed everybody's curiosity, and they insisted on his explaining.

After disclaiming any intention to prejudice the new man he informed them that the coming minister parted his hair in the middle. The congregation were indignant, but decided to suspend final judgment until they had seen the new man. The next Sunday when he walked composedly up the aisle every eye was upon him, and as he faced the people there was a broad smile on every face in the chapel. He was bald—London Tit-Bits.

Juvenile Logic.

Three-year-old Robert was given a tiny pill of homeopathic medicine by his aunt and liked it very much. He teased for more, but his aunt said, "If I gave it to you it would make you sick."

"What do you take it for then?" asked the logical Robert.

"I take it to make me well," answered his aunt.

Robert met this argument by saying: "I'll tell you what you can do, auntie. Suppose you give me half the bottle to make me sick and the other half to make me well."—Washington Star.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Disinfecting the Home After a Case of Contagious Disease.

In case a member of the family has been suffering from some infectious or contagious disease the first step in house cleaning is the disinfecting of the apartment occupied by the invalid, and now that grip has been declared contagious many thorough housewives quarantine sufferers from this disease and disinfect the room. Any tubercular trouble or serious throat afflictions, such as diphtheritic sore throat, severe tonsillitis, etc., are worth this precautionary step.

The first step in disinfecting is to burn a preparation of sulphur in each room, with every door and window tightly closed and the tiniest of apertures stuffed with paper, so that the room is perfectly air tight. The sulphur may be loose and laid on red-hot coals in an iron kettle set in the center of the floor, or it can be bought in the form of candles. When it has burned not less than twelve hours the room is thrown open to the air, and then, twenty-four hours later, walls and woodwork are washed with warm water to which any high grade fluid disinfectant has been added.

Homemade White Soap.

Fresh slacked lime, sal soda and tallow, each two pounds. Dissolve the soda in one gallon of boiling soft water and mix in the lime, stirring occasionally for a few hours, after which let it settle. Pour off the clear liquor and boil the tallow in it until dissolved. Cool in a flat box or pan and cut into bars or cakes. You can perfume it before it gets hard with sassafras, rose, bergamot or lavender oil. When making soap with any form of soda lime must be added to make it caustic, which removes the carbonic acid and leaves the rest of the soda free to act on the grease.

Oiling the Floor.

For oiling the floors of houses that have not good boards one small can of cherry red paint mixed with two quarts of boiled linseed oil and applied with a cloth will be found excellent.

A simpler way for good floors is to heat to the boiling point common boiled linseed oil and while still hot go over the floor, using an old paint brush and keeping the oil constantly hot. Even should the floor be rough and inclined to sliver this will be found a great improvement.

For Sore Throat.

Those subject to sore throat will find the following preparation simple, cheap and highly efficacious when used in the early stage: Pour a pint of boiling water on thirty leaves of the common sage and let the infusion stand for an hour. Add vinegar sufficient to make it pleasantly acid and honey to taste. The mixture should be used as a gargle twice a day. There is no danger if some of it is swallowed.

A Homemade Dentifrice.

A mouth wash to keep the gums healthy and firm is made as follows: Take two teaspoonfuls of tincture of myrrh, one teaspoonful of spirits of camphor and two pints of hot water in which have been dissolved two ounces of borax. Put a wineglassful of this mixture into a tumbler, fill it with water and use it when cleaning the teeth.

To Induce Sleep.

When overtired and restless bathe the neck and temples with hot water. Bathe the back of the neck particularly. This seems to relax the muscles and the veins that supply the brain with blood. A headache will often be relieved, even cured, by hot applications to the back of the neck.

Cooling Drink For the Sick.

To assuage thirst and appease feverishness apple tea is a capital drink for sick people. It is made by slicing raw apples into a jug, filling up the jug with boiling water, as in tea making, then sweetening to taste. When cold, this apple tea will be found pleasingly tart and refreshing.

Removing Old Paint.

When old paint is to be removed from the floors the following preparation is invaluable: Stir together two pounds of sal soda, half a pound of lime and one gallon of hot water. Apply while still warm to the old paint. The mixture will loosen the paint so you can easily remove it.

To Test Mushrooms.

When cooking mushrooms, try or fresh, drop in a silver piece—twenty-five or fifty cent piece—no difference as long as it is pure silver. If it turns black, they are poisonous; if the silver is bright, they are good.

To Remove Warts.

To remove a wart dampen it and rub with a piece of common soda. Do this three or four times a day for a month and the wart will drop off, leaving no mark on the skin.

Helpful Deeds

A great many of us have the thought and desire to do some large things at some time in our lives for the benefit of humanity, and are waiting for the power and opportunity which too often never comes our way. How very much better it would be for ourselves and others if we would only do the little, common, everyday kindnesses which we neglect, because we think them too trivial to bother about, and would take up time which we might spend more pleasantly in seeking of our own pleasure. What a mistake! It is the little things that counts big in the end. Scatter the sunshine in little bits every day by bright smiles, kind words and helpful deeds and your reward will come in large measure in that good feeling inside which is the reflection of sunshine scattered in this life and, better still, will be the well done which will await you in the dawning of that life which is to come.

"Canned White Man."

Burton Holmes, the lecturer, says that the Indians of Alaska regard white men and canned goods as so closely associated that they are nearly synonymous. Wherever the white man is seen canned meats, fruits and vegetables are found. When Mr. Holmes visited Alaska recently he carried with him a phonograph and it was exhibited to an old chief who never had seen a talking machine before. When the machine was started and the sound of human voice came from the trumpet the Indians were very much interested. He listened gravely for a time, then approached and peered in to the trumpet. When the machine finish its cylinder and stopped the Indian pointed at it and remarked: "Huh! Him canned white man."

Use Low Perches

Fowls often injure their breast bones flying down from high perches and coming thump on the floor, and growing chickens, if allowed to perch while quite young often indent their breasts; for their bones are yet soft. This is easily avoided by not letting them perch more than three feet, or four feet high, and, in the case of the chickens, not letting them perch a tall until three months old.

Make the breath as sweet as a rose by curing Indigestion, and Sour Stomach with Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. A pleasant, palatable, reconstructive tissue building digestant. E. L. Babcock, Amherst, Minn., says: "I have taken a great many remedies for indigestion but have found nothing equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure." Kodol digests what you eat, cures indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach Belching, Heartburn and all Stomach Troubles. Great care is used in the preparation of Kodol—the greatest that has ever been discovered. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

From Oklahoma and Indian Territory.

"Putting in potatoes, melons, cantaloupes, and a great many will raise more corn and hogs to eat the corn."

"More corn, oats, wheat, broom-corn and other products will be planted this year."

"Farmers are disgusted with the prices of cotton and want to get into the potato crop, corn and hogs."

"Diversified farming is the order of the day."

"All the good bottom land is being prepared for potatoes."

"The 30 per cent reduced cotton acreage will be planted in oats and corn."

Forget About Your Stomach.

If your digestion is bad the vital organs of your body are not fed and nourished as they should be. They grow weak and invite disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat cures indigestion and all stomach trouble. You forget you have a stomach from the very day you begin taking it. This is because it gets a rest—recuperates and gradually grows so strong and healthy that it troubles you no more. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

FORGOT HIS OWN NAME.

Stories That Are Told of Absentminded Josiah Quincy.

The absentmindedness of distinguished men, however much it may be a source of annoyance to themselves, serves to furnish the public with entertainment. Many venerable anecdotes still in circulation, plain and with variations, are based on this weakness of men of genius. The oft told story of the man who forgets his own name is one of them. It is told of many famous personages and doubtless of more than one of them with truth. Josiah Quincy, president of Harvard college, is one of the number. Of him the accepted form is that he could not recall who he was for the information of a person who requested him to leave his name for another on whom he had called until still another person passing by paused to speak and addressed him as "President Quincy."

"The very name I was trying to remember!" exclaimed the absentminded president, with vast relief. A little known and far more interesting, if less amusing, story of his forgetfulness was recently related by one who in turn had had it from his father, present as a boy when the incident occurred. Mr. Quincy on a notable occasion was prepared to address a great meeting in Faneuil hall. His speech fell naturally into two divisions. He delivered the first part and began the second.

"At that time, gentlemen," he said, and stopped. He paused, repeated, "At that time, gentlemen," and stopped again. A third time he repeated the phrase. But what should have followed had gone completely from his mind and could not be recalled, and he took his seat in confusion and distress.

It was more than an awkward situation for the chairman of the meeting, Harrison Gray Otis, and for the great, silent audience—it was a painful one. But Mr. Otis, rising and stepping forward, announced quietly that if the eloquent speaker required time to collect his thoughts before proceeding there was no doubt that all would willingly wait for him if it were till midnight. "But should he proceed no further," he added, "What he has said has been so clear, so cogent and so convincing that he may rest assured he has already satisfied every man present—except himself."—Youth's Companion.

That Explained It.

A Methodist congregation, who regretted the departure of a minister whose time had expired, plied the pastor with questions about the man appointed to succeed him.

The pastor gravely answered them:

"He is a good man and an able preacher, but—there, I don't suppose I ought to say anything, and I think on reflection that I won't."

Of course this inflamed everybody's curiosity, and they insisted on his explaining.

After disclaiming any intention to prejudice the new man he informed them that the coming minister parted his hair in the middle. The congregation were indignant, but decided to suspend final judgment until they had seen the new man. The next Sunday when he walked composedly up the aisle every eye was upon him, and as he faced the people there was a broad smile on every face in the chapel. He was bald!—London Tit-Bits.

Juvenile Logic.

Three-year-old Robert was given a tiny pill of homeopathic medicine by his aunt and liked it very much. He teased for more, but his aunt said, "If I gave it to you it would make you sick."

"What do you take it for then?" asked the logical Robert.

"I take it to make me well," answered his aunt.

Robert met this argument by saying: "I'll tell you what you can do, auntie. Suppose you give me half the bottle to make me sick and the other half to make me well."—Washington Star.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Disinfecting the Home After a Case of Contagious Disease.

In case a member of the family has been suffering from some infectious or contagious disease the first step in house cleaning is the disinfecting of the apartment occupied by the invalid, and now that grip has been declared contagious many thorough housewives quarantine sufferers from this disease and disinfect the room. Any tubercular trouble or serious throat afflictions, such as diphtheritic sore throat, severe tonsillitis, etc., are worth this precautionary step.

The first step in disinfecting is to burn a preparation of sulphur in each room, with every door and window tightly closed and the tiniest of apertures stuffed with paper, so that the room is perfectly air tight. The sulphur may be loose and laid on red-hot coals in an iron kettle set in the center of the floor, or it can be bought in the form of candles. When it has burned not less than twelve hours the room is thrown open to the air, and then, twenty-four hours later, walls and woodwork are washed with warm water to which any high grade fluid disinfectant has been added.

Homemade White Soap.

Fresh shelled lime, sal soda and tallow, each two pounds. Dissolve the soda in one gallon of boiling soft water and mix in the lime, stirring occasionally for a few hours, after which let it settle. Pour off the clear liquor and boil the tallow in it until dissolved. Cool in a flat box or pan and cut into bars or cakes. You can perfume it before it gets hard with sassafras, rose, bergamot or lavender oil. When making soap with any form of soda lime must be added to make it caustic, which removes the carbonic acid and leaves the rest of the soda free to act on the grease.

Oiling the Floor.

For oiling the floors of houses that have not good boards one small can of cherry red paint mixed with two quarts of boiled linseed oil and applied with a cloth will be found excellent.

A simpler way for good floors is to heat to the boiling point common boiled linseed oil and while still hot go over the floor, using an old paint brush and keeping the oil constantly hot. Even should the floor be rough and inclined to splinter this will be found a great improvement.

For Sore Throat.

Those subject to sore throat will find the following preparation simple, cheap and highly efficacious when used in the early stage: Pour a pint of boiling water on thirty leaves of the common sage and let the infusion stand for an hour. Add vinegar sufficient to make it pleasantly acid and honey to taste. The mixture should be used as a gargle twice a day. There is no danger if some of it is swallowed.

A Homemade Dentifrice.

A mouth wash to keep the gums healthy and firm is made as follows: Take two teaspoonfuls of tincture of myrrh, one teaspoonful of spirits of camphor and two pints of hot water in which have been dissolved two ounces of borax. Put a wine-glassful of this mixture into a tumbler, fill it with water and use it when cleaning the teeth.

To Induce Sleep.

When overtired and restless bathe the neck and temples with hot water. Bathe the back of the neck particularly. This seems to relax the muscles and the veins that supply the brain with blood. A headache will often be relieved, even cured, by hot applications to the back of the neck.

Cooling Drink For the Sick.

To assuage thirst and appease feverishness apple tea is a capital drink for sick people. It is made by slicing raw apples into a jug, filling up the jug with boiling water, as in tea making, then sweetening to taste. When cold, this apple tea will be found pleasingly tart and refreshing.

Removing Old Paint.

When old paint is to be removed from the floors the following preparation is invaluable: Stir together two pounds of sal soda, half a pound of lime and one gallon of hot water. Apply while still warm to the old paint. The mixture will loosen the paint so you can easily remove it.

To Test Mushrooms.

When cooking mushrooms, dry or fresh, drop in a silver piece—twenty-five or fifty cent piece—no difference as long as it is pure silver. If it turns black, they are poisonous; if the silver is bright, they are good.

To Remove Warts.

To remove a wart dampen it and rub with a piece of common soda. Do this three or four times a day for a month and the wart will drop off, leaving no mark on the skin.

"I know what it is to be afflicted with backache and I sympathize with fellow sufferers. After reading various and frequent nauseating doses of this and that prescription I decided that if Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure could not rid me of those backaches it at least would not do me any harm and I procured a bottle.

"Now the first bottle didn't stop those wearing backaches, but it did afford me great relief. The second bottle, however, did effectually put a stop to those racking backaches. Occasionally they returned when strenuous business affairs exhausted the physical forces, but a dose or two of Dr. Fenner's Cure gave instant relief.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

Request of a Neighbor Who Had the Borrowing Habit.

"My dear Mr. Taylor," said Mr. Perkins as they met on the street, "you and I have lived neighbors for five years."

"Yes."

"During that time I have kept a parrot, a goat, a dog and two cats."

"You have."

"My children have broken your windows, my goat has chewed up your Monday washing and my dog and cats have disturbed your sleep of nights."

"Yes, that is true."

"We have emptied our ashes over into your yard, borrowed your hoe and rake, broken down your alley fence and tried in various other ways to be neighborly."

"Heaven knows you have!"

"And now, my dear sir, to show us that you appreciate the situation of affairs and have no ill feeling in the matter I want to ask a favor of you."

"Go ahead."

"I have four daughters, as you know, and all of them are now ready to take piano lessons. Will you kindly and as a neighbor come down to Green's with me and help me to select a good toned instrument and guarantee my financial ability to pay him $10 a month on the installment plan?"—Brooklyn Citizen.

Those Dear Girls.

reort that you might better have left unsaid."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Reason Enough. Visitor (to prisoner)—Why are you here?

Prisoner—I had six wives, ma'am. Visitor—No wonder you look sad. Prisoner—Yes; in; me time's up next week, and I've got to go back to one of 'em!—Puck.

No Time. "You have quit complaining about the price of meat."

"Had to quit," answered the indignant citizen. "I am kept so busy hustling for the price that I no longer have time to complain."—Washington Star.

In Self Defence. Dobler—What makes you wear such loud trousers when you go to call on Miss Fortissimo?

Gobler—She's addicted to the pin-no habit.—Detroit Tribune.

At Parting. HE. I'll go away and win renown. And when my worth is known And I am rich I will return To claim you as my own.

SHE. Ah, yes; 'tis best! Go forth and get Renown and wealth. Be strong. Be true, and I'll be waiting—but Please don't be very long. —Chicago Record-Herald

A DYNAMITE EPISODE.

Early in the sixties a foreign inventor offered the secret of a new explosive that he had discovered to the British government. He asked for it an insignificant price, something under £100. After he had been kept waiting three months and had made repeated applications for a decision he was informed that his offer was declined with thanks, as neither the war office nor the board of trade saw anything in his invention. The foreigner was a Swede, by name Alfred Nobel. His invention was dynamite. My friend has only too good cause to remember the incident, for Nobel had offered him a half share in the profits if he would finance him to the extent of 500 kroner. Unfortunately for him, my friend was young and still cherished illusions in regard to the wisdom of governments and their officials, and the consequence was that when he learned the views of the British experts he also declined the offer with thanks. But for his simple faith he would today be a millionaire.—London Truth.

The British Bathing Folly.

One of the earliest impressions of an American in London is that Englishmen regard a bath as a luxury and not as a matter of course—a luxury to be paid for. At the hotel he has landed in he can pay 2 shillings for a warm bath. And his conclusion is that the Englishman, in spite of his traditional tub, is not a clean man. He cannot afford to be clean in a London hotel.

Two warm baths a day. That is the American's average. Four shillings. He has a wife and a son and daughter. Sixteen shillings a day. Broken out the expense, and you will find that this man must pay about $100 a year to keep himself and his family clean. The American visitor has figured out that at least twelve calls on that bath are made every day. Nine hundred a year profit from a bathroom that certainly did not cost £100 in the building!—London Chronicle.

American Capital Saved England.

Were there no United States, would the high society be solvent? asks Martinsdale in the London Graphic. That question has never yet been asked or examined. Several millions have been brought into our country during the last forty years by American heiresses, and no enormous sum has been received in exchange for land, paintings, engravings, old furniture, works of art, jewelry, plate and books. Moreover, American capital has been invested in this country mostly through the intervention of titled Englishmen, who, of course, have generally benefited by the transaction. Probably $100,000,000 has come to the west end through these various transactions. Would the west end have been bankrupt had that sum not been procurable?

T. J. Gold in Tibet.

One who went with Colonel Younghusband to Lassa wrote of the hardships encountered as follows: "Despite the protection of almost arctic clothing one shivers until the sun rises over the eastern hill at 10 o'clock and shivers again when it sinks behind the opposite one at 3. icy winds sweep the valley, and hurricanes of dust invade one's tent. Against this cold one clothes oneself in flannel vest and shirt, sweater, flannel lined coat, poshteen or Kashmir sheepskin, wool lined Gilgit boots and fur or woolen cap with flaps meeting under the chin. The general effect is barbaric and picturesque."

SPRING GREETING

Millinery Department.

Show us a successful Milliner and we will show you an artist. Our success, the public comment, the satisfaction of retaining our customers, our growing popularity, all come from the able management of this Department. Miss Pirtle has, if possible, surpassed all former efforts in her good judgment, fine taste, shrewd buying and coupling these features with her quaint originality, we are assured that our customers' interests are fully protected in price and quality and that our line will appeal to the well dressed woman who demands only Millinery of approved style. An immense line of Ready-to-Wear Hats and Caps, which you will have to see to admire their beauty, Veiling Ribbons, Infants Head Wear, Childrens and Ladies' Caps from 10c to $1.00. Miss Pirtle expects her usual business and invites the early inspection of her many friends and customers.

Clothing.

Our own expectations have been surpassed in this department, and our preparations for an increased business, is shown by our large Stock. We have Men's Suits from $3.00 to $18.50. Old Pants from $1.25 to $5.50, and when we sell you it is our desire to make a regular customer, and to do this we must sell you goods that will give satisfaction in fit and wear. A beautiful line of Fancy Vests which you will surely want to see. Don't fail to visit our Clothing Department, as we are showing great Values, beautiful Fabrics, latest Styles.

New Canal Commission.

The executive order issued by the President for the guidance of the Canal Commission was made public in Washington Monday. The President virtually carries out his plan for the reduction of the number of commissioners by making three of the seven virtually the working force of the body. But one member of the old commission was reappointed. The commission held a preliminary meeting after the President's departure from Washington.

NOCREEK.

March 29.—J. B. Foster, Hartford, was in our midst Monday.

L. C. Bennett and family have moved to Mrs. Sarah Borah's property.

Master James Chamberlain is convalescent from an attack of roseola. Mr. Burton, Masonville, was here this week buying cattle.

Leslie Lake, of Mt. Moriah, was in town yesterday.

Born, to the wife of Mr. Johnson, on the 26th, a girl.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Stevens are the proud parents of a baby girl which made her arrival March 25th.

A protracted meeting is announced to begin at Wesley Chapel Sunday. Joe Thomason, who has been confined to his room with rheumatism, is able to be out again.

All the farmers here are expecting to attend the union at Hartford April 1.

The Local A. S. of E. here had a call meeting Saturday night to hear from their delegate, Mr. David Moreland who had just returned from Owensboro to inspect the ware house plan. He was well pleased and his report was highly enjoyed by the Lodge. Since the acreage has been reduced to 10,000 hills to the hand, let us have 1,800 pounds to the acre, and get more money than we have heretofore out of 20,000.

R. A. Leisure and family have moved to the Craig place, which makes the thirtieth move in this school district for the present crop year. There is another family yet wanted.
